

GIFT A BOOK

We are collecting some truly beautiful books for our 'Gift a book' box – an idea that came from one of our pupils' parents. These books have been donated by families and reflect the diversity of the Hampton Hargate School community. They include books about all forms of diversity, including culture, language, wellbeing and disability. Our school also contributes to this growing collection of texts.

If your family has any books you would like to share – it might be something your child or family is passionate about, it could be about your family heritage, or it might be a book you think is important for children to share – we'd love to share it with our school community.

Please pass on your donations to your child's class teacher, and do let us know which family has donated it so we can thank you for it.
